MAP 2302, Section 11, Spring 2017, 3 credit hours

INSTRUCTOR: Prof. D. J. Kaup
OFFICE: MAP 202C
OFFICE HOURS: MW 10:30AM-1:00PM, TR 11:30AM-12:30PM
(Other hours available by appointment)
PHONE: 407-823-2795
E-MAIL: david.kaup@ucf.edu
CLASS LOCATION: MSB 109
CLASS TIMES: MW 7:30AM-8:45AM
TEXTBOOK: William E. Boyce & Richard C. DiPrima, "Differential Equations", 11TH Edition.

COVERAGE: We shall cover Ch. 1-6 in the textbook. Some sections may be deleted.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Ordinary Differential Equations I: Methods of solution for first-order, differential equations. Methods of solution for linear, differential equations, including Laplace transforms and Series solution of differential equations.

PREREQUISITE: Completion of Calculus I – III. And with a B or better is strongly advised.

COURSE GOAL: To master methods for solving elementary differential equations.

COURSE CONTENT: We expect to cover sections from Chapters 1.1-3, 2.1-2, 2.4, 2.6, 3.1-6, 4.1-4, 5.1-3, and 6.1-2. The topics covered will include first order ODEs, linear ODEs, Laplace transforms and series solutions. Depending upon time, I may add additional topics as we progress.

ATTENDANCE and CLASSROOM CONDUCT: Students are expected to attend all lectures. Common courtesy requires that students arrive in class on time, and stay in class the entire class period. Turn off your cell-phones, pagers, and other electronic devices when in the classroom.

HOMEWORK: The homework assignments will be done under WileyPlus. Questions on homework can always be taken up in class or any time in my office.

QUIZZES: Quizzes will be given at random. There will be no make-ups for missed quizzes.

EXAMS: There will be two in-class examinations and a mandatory final. Exam 1 is scheduled for Feb. 13 and the other one is scheduled for March 27. Changes in the exam dates, if any, will be given on the syllabus and perhaps announced in class. There will be no formula sheets except what I provide. There will be no "make-up" exams. Depending on the circumstances, I will work out some method. Each student is to supply one 8.5"x11" blue or greenbook for each in-class exam and for the final exam. These must be turned in, at least one day BEFORE each exam.

NGR 7827 Syllabus
Spring 2017

Faculty: Steve Talbert, Ph.D.
Email: Email within the course or steven.talbert@ucf.edu
Phone: 407.823.2888
Office: University Tower – Room 488
Office Hours: Please email me to arrange for meeting in person or by phone. Although I do have office hours, they change from week to week. It is beneficial for students to make an appointment if you want to meet with me in person or have a phone consultation. Scheduling an appointment ensures sufficient and dedicated time to discuss issues or questions regarding the content of this course.

Course Description:

Identification, analysis, and measurement of concepts; analysis and management of clinical data.

Credit Hours: 3 (lecture)

Course Objectives:

Upon completion of this course, the student will be able to:

1. Analyze a concept relevant to clinical practice
2. Develop approaches for measuring and evaluating a clinical concept.
3. Design approaches to do the following:
 - collect and analyze data
 - design and test evidence-based interventions
 - identify gaps in evidence for practice

Required Textbooks:

Brophy, S., Snooks, H., & Griffiths, L. (2008). Small-scale evaluation in health: A practical guide. Los Angeles, CA: Sage.

Langley, G. J., Moen, R. D., Nolan, K. M., Nolan, T. W., Norman, C. L., & Provost, L. P. (2009). The improvement guide: A practical approach to enhancing organizational performance, (2nd ed.). San Francisco, CA: Jossey-Bass.

Provost, L. P., & Murray, S. K. (2011). The health care data guide: Learning from data for improvement. San Francisco, CA: Jossey-Bass.

Recommended Texts:

- Good grammar and structure reference such as: Strunk, W. (2011). The elements of style. New York: Tribeca.
- Good punctuation reference such as: Truss, L. (2006). Eats, shoots & leaves: The zero tolerance approach to punctuation. New York: Gotham.

Recommended Resources:

- Good basic biostatistics text or reference website.
- Good basic evidence-based practice text or reference website.

Overview of Essential Content:

1. Concept analysis
 - a. Identify concept
 - b. Comprehensive literature review
 - c. Model concept
2. Measuring a clinical concept
 - a. Data sources
 - b. Potential confounding variables
 - c. Issues in measurement
3. Analysis of existing datasets to make decisions
 - a. Essential statistics review
 - b. Registries and administrative datasets
 - c. Data cleaning and analysis
4. Clinical research and practice for APNs
 - a. Team selection
 - b. Designing and implementing small-scale clinical studies
 - c. Ethical issues related to human subjects' research
5. Proposal writing and grant funding
 - a. Setting yourself up for success
 - b. Identifying funding sources
 - c. Grant writing tips

Evaluation Methods:

Graded Assignment	Possible Points
Concept Analysis	150
Module Discussion and Participation	110
Peer Review of Draft Concept Analysis	10
Data Table	10
Draft Concept Analysis	10
Research and Grant Funding Plan	50
Total	330

Grading:

Grade	Points
A	317 - 330
A-	304 - 316
B+	287 - 303
B	274 - 286
C+	260 - 273
C	248 - 259
D	231 - 247
F	< 230

Late Submission of Graded Assignments: All graded assignments are due by 11:59 PM on the date in the class schedule. Late assignments will be accepted but carry a 10% point penalty for every 48-hour period beyond the due date.

Important Dates

See the class schedule for all due dates.

Graded Submissions and Assignments

1. Module Discussions and Participation
 - The online portion of this course is an essential learning component
 - You are expected to take an active role in the learning process – this means completing original postings, reading other students' original postings, and posting thoughtful responses
 - Initial and response postings are required for every module
 - All postings due by Midnight on due date listed in the course schedule
2. Concept Analysis (draft and final versions)
 - See the document titled "Concept Analysis Guidelines"
 - Hupcey, J.E., & Penrod, J. (2005). Concept analysis: Examining the state of the science. Research and Theory for Nursing Practice: An International Journal, 19(2), 197-208.
3. Peer Review of Concept Analysis
 - You will review a draft of another student's Concept Analysis paper
 - You will complete the review form and provide any constructive comments you feel appropriate
 - Peer assigned by faculty
 - Peer Review Form provided by faculty
 - Return to the form to both the paper's author and course faculty
4. Data Table
 - You must create a data collection table where you identify the variables of interest, data sources, data cleaning plan
 - See the document and required template titled "Data Collection Plan"

5. Research and Grant Funding Summary

- This is an executive summary of your plan for obtaining funding and an overview of your research plan
- It should clearly identify at least two (2) sources of potential funding and give an overview of all elements of your research plan
- See the document titled “Research and Grant Funding Summary”

NOTES: All assignments are due by midnight on the posted due date. Assignments may be turned in early. I am happy to review drafts of your documents as I have time.

Frustration Policy

Being frustrated with course content and activities is part of graduate education. I want to provide you with some guidelines for handling frustration with the content and activities of this course.

1. Wrestle alone for 24 hours with the issue causing frustration. Seek clarification on your own, search websites, review course materials, read the text or articles again, etc. After you graduate, you will have frustrating situations and may have to resolve them on your own. Try hard to resolve your frustration on your own for 24 hours.
2. If the frustration persists after 24 hours, ask for clarification. You can post the issue to a discussion board so everyone can benefit from your question and the response. (If you are frustrated, chances are high someone else is as well.) You can also send me an email.
3. If you see a frustrated classmate and are able, jump in and help. Feel free to add constructive comments to any thread on the discussion boards. I believe graduate education is a process of uncovering and discovering knowledge together. I always learn from what my students contribute to the class.

Getting Help in This Class

Every semester, I hear struggling students say something about how they didn't understand something but didn't want to ask for help. Unfortunately, it is usually as we are discussing their low grade. Here are some of the things I often hear:

- I wanted to figure it out on my own
- I didn't want to bother you
- I should be able to understand this
- No one else seemed to be struggling with it
- I was too embarrassed to ask for help

Please let me remind you of some very important things:

1. You are paying for this course – get as much learning as possible for your money
2. You are a student – students are not expected to know everything, so take advantage of that and ask questions
3. I am not a mind reader – I may not know you are having problems until I grade the assignment
4. I promise you are not alone – you may get individual feedback, but that does not mean you are the only person struggling with the content

Here are some things you can do to help yourself in this class:

1. Read the syllabus
2. Know due dates for postings and assignments
3. Read and understand instructions and guidelines for all assignments
4. Complete the required readings
5. Take an active role in online discussions
6. Seek out additional resources on your own (e.g., videos, articles, etc.) then share the ones you find helpful with the class

If you need help from faculty or librarian:

1. Ask questions if you do not understand something
2. Post your question to the appropriate discussion forum
3. Email your question to the faculty or librarian
4. Email to arrange a one-on-one help session (phone or live)

Reviewing Drafts

I am happy to review additional drafts of documents as time allows. I will make editorial comments to selected sections or items. Please use my comments to make all necessary changes throughout your document. I will not make any corrections to APA format issues as you have instructions and examples in the required text or online resources.

UCF Writing Center

The UCF Writing Center is one possible resource to help you with the structure of your paper. They are not content or EBP experts, so they will not be able to help you with the science of your paper. You can learn more about the UCF Writing Center resources at:

<http://www.uwc.ucf.edu/>

Crisis Management

Should an unfortunate event or emergency occur during the semester, please contact me by email ASAP. It is much easier to address issues prior to any posted deadlines. If necessary, you can have someone else email me directly (steven.talbert@ucf.edu).

Statistics Resources

It is impossible to evaluate published research or complete your DNP project without some grasp of statistics. We have modules to discuss some important statistical concepts and common statistical tests. You will have an opportunity to run a few common tests in Excel or SPSS. This course will focus more on the interpretation and application of statistical tests. If you are interested in a more in-depth discussion of the math behind various statistical tests, I suggest Statistics: The Bare Essentials by Norman and Streiner. I used this text as a resource throughout the modules.

Department of Electrical and Computer Science

Office Hours:	Tu : 12:30 PM – 2:30 PM Th : 12:30 PM – 2:30 PM

Course Description: Fundamental laws of electrical circuits. basic DC and AC circuit analysis.

Pre-requisite: PHY 2049, CR:MAP 2302

Course Credits: 3 credit hours

Textbook: A Brief Introduction to Circuit Analysis, J.D. Irwin, Wiley.

Homework: Homework problems will be assigned at the end of each topic

Quizzes: You will have a 10-minute in-lecture quiz each week, based on recent lecture material.

Grading:

Exams: You will have two midterm exams and one final exam.
You can get your graded exams and quizzes back.
Should you have any question about your grade, please bring it to my attention within two weeks after the grades have been posted.

Quizzes	20%
Exam (1)	20%
Exam (2)	20%
Final Exam	40%

Learning circuit theory:

This is a problem-solving course emphasizing analysis, but also including design and evaluation. The importance of working out the homework problems yourself cannot be over-emphasized. Looking over other people's solutions is no substitute for working the problems on your own. If you don't do the problems, you won't learn circuit theory. You should work through all of the example problems as you read the text and read the unassigned problems at the end of each chapter to determine if you know how to approach their solutions.

Hello Katrina,

I called the bookstore this morning to make sure textbooks are available to my students, and was told to forward you the textbook information for the course. The books are:

Film Directing Shot by Shot: Visualizing from Concept to Screen by Steven D. Katz

ISBN-10: 0941188108

ISBN-13: 978-0941188104

and

The Visual Story: Creating the Visual Structure of Film, TV and Digital Media

by Bruce Block

ISBN-13: 978-0240807799

ISBN-10: 0240807790

Thank you,

Dominic

Dominic DiPaolo

Adjunct Professor

School of Visual Art and Design

University of Central Florida

CGS 2545C-0001
Instructor: Rochelle Elva

Apart from the lectures, the primary medium of communication for this course will be Webcourses. It will be used for the posting of lecture notes, class notices and for the submission of all assignments to be graded. Students are therefore expected to check Webcourses at least daily, for any updates.

Students are expected to keep current with all material covered in lectures by attending lectures and reviewing lecture notes. When students have to miss class (something which should not occur often), it is their responsibility to get notes from another student who has attended the class. They should also download and study the lecture notes posted on Webcourses. In addition, all enrolled students are expected to attempt and submit all assignments by the deadline. The dates for exams will be posted ahead of time. It is the responsibility of all students to commit to the course schedule when registering for this course. This means being present at all course exams, on the date and at the time for which they are scheduled.

Students are expected to prepare for the labs, by reviewing the lecture notes for lectures covered prior to the lab. This preparation is important to facilitate the completion of the lab assignment that will be submitted for grading.

The Lecturer and GTAs are here to help students to understand the concepts covered in the course. The GTAs will be grading all assignments. Therefore, they will be the first line of reference if you have questions about an assignment grade. Your lecturer is available during office hours to answer questions about your course content and to resolve any other course related issues that you may have.

The following text is required for this course:

Modern Database Management, 12e, Hoffer, Prescott & Topi, Pearson, 2013, ISBN-13: 978-0133544619.

The text will be supplemented with lecture notes provided via Webcourses.

The labs will be based on prepared worksheets.

This course has three 50 minute lecture sessions weekly. Attendance at these sessions is required. Assignments and labs will be used to review and evaluate the content covered in class and to prepare for the course exams. All homework assignments have to be typed and submitted via Webcourses by the stated deadline. No assignment will be accepted by email.
